Dear Emmanuel Community:

As the concerns about the COVID-19 outbreak spread, we received an email early this morning from Bishop Deborah Hutterer, the Bishop of the Grand Canyon Synod with the following message.

“Having prayerfully considered our current situation with respect to COVID-19, in conversation with bishops from the wider church, and in light of the quickly evolving nature of this pandemic, I am recommending that all ELCA congregations in the Grand Canyon Synod, regardless of location or number of congregants, suspend public worship gatherings, events and meetings beginning immediately until at least April 1, possibly longer.”

Our executive committee met this morning and are all in agreement that this is a wise step and that we will immediately suspend worship, meetings and gatherings of any kind at the church until at least April 1st, as recommended by the Bishop.

Jesus put the most vulnerable and marginalized in the center of the community and by taking this step we are doing this as well. I know this will be difficult, but we need to find ways to be church together, even when we can't be proximate to each other! It will take some thinking outside of the box and I encourage all of us to come up with new ways of being church in our community.

Where do we go from here? The church will be closed but there will often be folks in the building (keeping a safe distance from each other and using lots of Clorox wipes) during the week to keep things moving forward. We will ask our staff to work from home when possible. Please consider mailing your offerings or using Bill Pay via your bank to continue to support the ministries at Emmanuel if you are able.

Tomorrow morning you will be able to go to the Emmanuel Lutheran Church website, <http://www.emmanuelutheranpv.org> and access a brief worship service and audio of my sermon for this Sunday. From the home page, click on the Worship With Us tab, then look for the Audio Sermons link at the bottom. We have organized the media team to begin working on live-streaming services and will keep you posted about our progress. Check out the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, ELCA Facebook page for more current information as well.

We have purchased a subscription to Zoom.com, an online video/audio conferencing site that will allow us to be in contact with each other and even perhaps offer Bible Studies and other kinds of meetings through this medium. The Care and Nurture ministry has been asked to work with the Fellowship ministry to activate a phone tree. The Executive committee of the council will be meeting via Zoom.com daily for a while to keep on top of things.

We will send out a weekly email newsletter to keep you up to date and I will be making phone calls to the entire congregation in the next few days. We will send the most current church directory out to the congregation via email on Monday. Let us know you if you would like a hard copy, we can put one in the mail to you. Please continue to be safe and use common sense precautions. I am available via my cell phone, 310-890-9785.

As the Bishop said, in the midst of it all, we will care for one another, we will pray for one another, and we will be Christ's Church. May God grant us wisdom, and grant us courage for the facing of this hour,

In Christ,

To Pastors, Deacons and Congregational Councils of the Grand Canyon Synod

Dear Church,

Having prayerfully considered our current situation with respect to COVID-19, in conversation with bishops from the wider church, and in light of the quickly evolving nature of this pandemic, I am recommending that all ELCA congregations in the Grand Canyon Synod, regardless of location or number of congregants, suspend public worship gatherings, events and meetings beginning immediately until at least April 1, possibly longer.

Our church polity doesn't permit me to issue a mandate, this recommendation comes at my strongest possible urging in light of all current available information. I trust you as congregational leaders – pastors, staff and Council – to consult with one another as you make decisions and implement plans in your particular context.

You have heard me say that we are better together for the sake of the Gospel, and the way we can be better together with our local communities, our nation and our world is to reduce all possible risk of transmission of this virus about which we still know relatively little and which can be lethal for our most vulnerable citizens. We must act in solidarity for the sake of the neighbor. To think “this doesn't apply to me and my community” does not take seriously enough our responsibility to the neighbor under these circumstances. I realize that some congregations already have plans to still gather this coming Sunday: if so, please take maximum care to ensure the safety of those most susceptible to this illness.

Let me be clear: this time of social distancing – or better said, physical distancing – does NOT mean we are suspending being the church! On the contrary, this means is that we become church in new ways. It's ironic but true that the best of who we are as church has always flourished under adversity. How will this moment invite us to reframe who and why and how we are as Christ's Body for the life of the world?

Here are some steps to take during this period:

- Plan ways to foster spiritual life and a sense of community that don't involve being in the same physical space. This may be an opportunity to deepen relationships as we reach out to each other more intentionally and as we engage in a pause from our relentless pace to reflect on God's presence with us in Christ.
- Be creative in planning for virtual/home worship experiences. In lieu of a service of Holy Communion, help reintroduce people to varieties of a Service of the Word. Consider a Lenten focus on prayer, fasting and self-reflection. Start thinking about how to frame a Holy Week experience that people can experience in their homes or what an Easter experience might include if we are not able to gather together.
- Rostered leaders can consider ways to share devotions or sermons online or through enews options.

- Consider how to provide care for vulnerable members and neighbors. What can be done to be sure that we as the church are tending to the needs of those most impacted by this crisis?
- Imagine new ways to be church for the life of the world in your context in this moment. If our times of worship have always been about equipping the saints for their ministry, how do we now unleash that potential?

Here are some ways the Office of the Bishop will support you:

- We will invite the Deans to weekly conference check-in ZOOM meetings both to receive updates from every congregation and to help problem solve. A member of the Office of the Bishop staff will participate in each ZOOM.
- We have a page on our website for resource sharing and idea exchanges, seeking to address particular issues as they arise.
- We may hold webinars to keep folks updated as this situation evolves.

In the midst of it all, we will care for one another, we will pray for one another, and we will be Christ's Church.

May God grant us wisdom, and grant us courage for the facing of this hour,

In Christ,

The Rev. Deborah K. Hutterer, Bishop
